

Today's Meeting

Craft Talk

This morning we welcome the opportunity to learn a bit more about one of our new members and turn to Brian Smith for his craft talk. Welcome, Brian!!

Thanks to Paul Henry and John Goss for arranging June programs

Upcoming Meetings

Next week – we're dark in the morning so we can appropriately de-bunk President Dave at the Freitas home in the evening.

Club Life

The Hang Out at the Hangar is now history. We saw a number of club members in action, and expect a little official wrap-up this morning. Speaking of history, what do you think the chances were that Rod Parrott would win an airplane ride two years in a row?

The club website still has news about the recent District Conference – and awards to Sunrise. Be sure to check on it, if you haven't already.

Even as we speak –or meet, as it may be– the R.I. Convention is wrapping up its “Rocky Mountain Rendezvous” in Salt Lake City. We expect a full report from President-elect Al when he returns.

The club has already been put “on call” for hospitality during the 2008 convention, scheduled for Los Angeles. R.I. is looking for hospitality sites on Monday, June 16, when Rotarians from around the world will venture out for dinner in Rotarians’ homes around the L.A. basin.

As the wheels of Rotary continue to turn, Sunrise gears up for the summer months with new sergeant and invocation schedules, thanks to Reggie Yates and Chuck Leeb. The balance of club organization is on the agenda for the club assembly during the July 11 meeting.

The third in the recent trilogy of darkened meetings occurs in two weeks: July 4 is a Wednesday, and we take leave of our regular meeting in order to sponsor the duck race booth at Claremont’s Independence Day celebration in Memorial Park. Doug Thompson indicates that the ducks have been waiting patiently for this day, and are ready to go for the gold. We expect a sign-up sheet for Sunrisers willing and able to help to be circulated today.
